

Highlights

- A history-conditioned transformer flies the rotor-wing hand-off of a plant family.
- A context token resolves the plant while its response is inside the window.
- A backup safety module certifies each command over a plant set with proofs.
- One policy trained through a flight-identified differentiable model, no expert.
- Compared with nine controllers, from recorded flight states and with PX4 in the loop.